Formative assessment tools

Remember that it is easy for many of these tools to lead learners to focus on the “bells and whistles” rather than the content. How the intent of the activity is communicated, the way the questions are designed, and what comes before and after these tools could be critical

- Quizlet and Quizlet Live: mostly vocabulary-focused, but there is a geography feature
- Quizizz: create or search for quizzes. Score is not based on speed
- Kahoot: multiple choice and “jumble” activities. Score improves with speed.
- Gimkit: power ups and other features that replicate video games make this tool different. Students only compete against themselves.
- GoFormative: create activities with a variety of response options, including “show your work” (drawing)